ENAGO EXPRESS

Everything Enago

What's New?

We successfully conducted 4 informative physical workshops in UAE through our knowledge arm - Enago Academy, with young researchers, faculty members, Heads of Departments, and Doctoral & Postdoctoral researchers in attendance. The workshops were conducted at American University of Sharjah, University of Sharjah, AL Ain University of Science and Technology, and United Arab Emirates University.

The speaker for all the workshops was the Editor-in-Chief of Enago Academy- Dr. Anupama Kapadia (she/her) who spoke on a diverse range of topics to engage the participants and help them plan their research and publication journey better. The topics included: Ethical Considerations in Scholarly Publishing, Communicating Research Findings with Confidence, Guide to Successful Academic Publishing, and Expert Tips to Avoid Journal Rejection.

WHAT OUR CLIENTS HAVE TO SAY

"The editor has been amazing with responsiveness and the ability to meet our needs. The quality has been excellent and all deadlines were met (or exceeded). It's been a great partnership working with the team!."

"Some proofreading suggestions were found to change the meaning and even the content of the text. We would like to see improvements."

"Unlike general proofreading, I think Enago's unique feature is that they pay close attention to details specific to field of expertise. Thanks to their services, we had fewer rejections and have been able to publish in high impact factor journals. I also like that Enago is able to respond quickly even when I am in a hurry. I will continue to use Enago with confidence."

EDITOR SPEAK

MB1319, United States

Having worked for several English language editing services, I can honestly say that my time with Enago has been the most positive. In my opinion, two key factors set Enago apart: the respect that is shown to freelance editors, by the full-time Enago employees, and the company's clear emphasis on prompt and courteous communication. Being a freelancer can be challenging. Many times positive feedback is scarce, and the efforts of the freelancer go unrecognized with the exception of when problems arise. I have found Enago to be different in this regard. In particular, my interactions with the project managers have been courteous and left me feeling as if my efforts were appreciated. When I have questions, they are answered promptly.

Working for Enago means having access to an extremely flexible, yet stable workload. As an academic and researcher, I enjoy much of what I am given to edit. From an operational standpoint, I have had no problems with the hiring or accounting departments. Payment has been prompt every month, and the clear and prompt communication I have received is much appreciated. I look forward to my future work with Enago.
