ENAGO EXPRESS

Everything Enago

What's New?

Enago is partnering with Becaris Publishing Limited to empower authors in medical research. The partnership ensures breaking down language barriers and broadening the impact of research. Becaris, with its focus on real-world evidence, aligns seamlessly with our commitment to supporting authors throughout their publication journeys.

Learn how this partnership can benefit the research communication and publication industry. Eric Zheng, from our China strategic alliances team, had the privilege of representing us at the Times Higher Education (THE) Innovation & Impact Summit in Shenzhen, China, held on November 7-8, 2023. During this summit, we not only had the opportunity to establish meaningful new connections but also to strengthen existing partnerships with our long-standing Chinese university collaborators and colleagues.

WHAT OUR CLIENTS HAVE TO SAY

"I would like to thank the editor for the detailed inspection and correction of my manuscript. I really felt like having an English grammar teacher by my side. I learned a lot from the kind remarks."

"There is a large number of language flaws, some of them impairing readability, but also make hard to understand the authors conclusions. The manuscript should be corrected by a native speaker. "

"This was the best proofreading I have ever received. Thank you very much "

"Compared to other companies, the cover letter did not reflect the novelty of the paper well and needed major revisions. I don't know if it was the remoteness of the proofreader's expertise, but I felt there was room for improvement"

EDITOR SPEAK

PSE1257, United States

I have been working as a freelance editor for several years as a means for supplementing my primary income, and I enjoy helping non-native English speakers enhance their paper quality.

However, I was looking for a more reliable stream of work and subsequently interviewed with Enago through their on-line hiring process. After completing one simple test to determine my editing abilities, I was accepted as a freelancer to perform ESL editing. I have been impressed that the papers assigned to me have been fairly well-prepared based on my previous experience of working with authors who are non-native English speakers. The deadlines required to have a document edited and returned to Enago have always been reasonable considering the highly technical subject matter I am typically assigned.

I am pleased to be a part of Enago's editing team and look forward to continuing my working relationship with Enago for many more years to come.
